Vincent E. Edmunds, 65, led fight for monument

Vincent E. Edmunds, 65, of Westerleigh, a World War II veteran and history buff, died Saturday at his home from a heart attack.

Born in Margaretsville, N.Y., he moved to Port Richmond in 1937 and settled in Westerleigh in 1950.

Mr. Edmunds worked for the RCA Service Co. in Camden, N.J., in various technical and managerial positions from 1947 to 1976. He also served as the manager of the company's Brooklyn branch and as the assistant eastern regional manager.

From 1978 to 1987 he worked in the mail department of the Algenene Bank in Manhattan, retiring in 1987.

Mr. Edmunds was a graduate of Port Richmond High School and attended Dartmouth College, Hanover, N.H. He was a member of the alumni associations of both schools.

He served as a petty officer in the Navy during World War II in China, the South Pacific and the Philippines.

He was a member of Tappen Post, American Legion, for more than 40 years and a member of the Landing Ship Medium Association. He was also a certified genealogist and compiled a book, "Our Family in America, 1725 to 1964."

Mr. Edmunds was a member of the Sons of the American Revolution and The War of 1812 Society. He was also a life member and past commander of the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War.

In 1970 upon learning that there was no monument for New York soldiers who served during the winter of 1777 at Valley Forge under George Washington, Mr. Edmunds pursued the matter with the state Senate, his family said. His efforts led to a monument being erected in Manhattan in time for the bicentennial celebration in 1976.

Mr. Edmunds is survived by a sister, Phyllis A. Mikson.

Cremation will be handled by the Meislohn-Silvie Funeral Home, Port Richmond.

Sally Santagata, 73, worked for CSI

Sadie (Sally) Santagata, 73, of New Dorp, a retired College of Staten Island personnel officer, died Saturday in Staten Island University Hospital, Ocean Breeze, of a heart attack.

Born Sadie Pirrotto in Hoboken, N.J., she moved to New Dorp in 1957 from Manhattan.

Mrs. Santagata was a homemaker and worked as a personnel officer in the personnel department of the College of Staten Island for almost 20 years, retiring in 1985. Following her retirement, she worked as a clerk with the Society for Seaman's Children, St. George, for one year.

Mrs. Santagata was a parishioner of Our Lady Queen of Peace R.C. Church, New Dorp, and was a member of the church's Rosary Altar Society.

Her husband, Joseph, died in 1956.

Surviving are her son, Frank; her brother, Joseph Pirrotto; and her sister, Victoria Sabatino.

The funeral will be Wednesday from the Hanley Funeral Home, New Dorp, with a mass at 9:30 a.m. in Our Lady Queen of Peace Church. Burial will follow in Calvary Cemetery, Queens.

Margaret Garbarino, 49, bowling champion

Margaret (Peggy) Garbarino, 49, of Grant City, a bowling champion and former broker, died Saturday in Staten Island University Hospital, Ocean Breeze, of cancer.

Born Margaret Maguire, she was a lifelong resident of Grant City.

A graduate of New Dorp High School, Mrs. Garbarino worked as a broker for L.F. Rothschild and Co., a former brokerage firm in Manhattan, for 22 years. She later worked at Oppenheimer Co. in Manhattan for four years as a broker.

Mrs. Garbarino belonged to several bowling leagues and won several bowling championships during the 1960s. She was one of the Showboat Girls, a bowling team sponsored by the Atlantic City showboat. Mrs. Barbarino was named Metropolitan Woman Bowler of the Year in 1966.

A feature appeared in the Sunday Advance describing her long career and competitiveness.

She was a parishioner of St. Christopher's R.C. Church, Grant City.

Surviving are her husband, Alfred; her father, Patrick Maguire; two brothers, Joseph and Gerard Maguire; and three sisters, Teresa Forster, Patricia McKay and Mary Formino.

The funeral will be Wednesday from the Hanley Funeral Home, New Dorp, with a mass at 10 a.m. in St. Christopher's Church. Burial will follow in St. Peter's Cemetery, West Brighton.

Joseph Montalbano, 67, was security director

Joseph A. Montalbano, 67, of Westerleigh, the retired director of security for Wagner College and a World War II veteran, died Saturday at St. Vincent's Medical Center from cancer.

Born in Manhattan, Mr. Montalbano was brought to Dongan Hills in 1929. In 1955, he moved to Westerleigh.

He attended New Dorp High School.

Mr. Montalbano worked for 23 years as the borough clerk in the District Superintendent's Office of the city Sanitation Department. He then worked as a security guard at Wagner College for 10 years, and was appointed director of security and safety in 1981. He retired in 1985.

A private in the U.S. Army during World War II, Mr. Montalbano took part in the invasion of Normandy as a member of the 29th Infantry Division.

He was a member of the the Disabled American Veterans, the DAV Commanders Club, and the Veterans of Foreign Wars. He also was a member of the South Shore chapter of the AARP.

He was a parishioner at St. Rita's R.C. Church, Meiers Corners.

His wife, the former Nora Berardocco, died in 1989.

Surviving are two sons, William and Dr. Robert; a sister, Catherine Zito, and four grandchildren.

The funeral will be tomorrow from the Matthew Funeral Home, Willowbrook, with a mass at 10:30 a.m. in St. Rita's Church. Entombment will follow at Moravian Cemetery, New Dorp.

Ida Agaccio, 80, native of Italy

Ida Agaccio, 80, a native of Italy and retired seamstress who had resided in Eltingville, died Saturday in Doctors' Hospital.

Born Ida Franzone in Naples, Italy, she moved to Brooklyn in 1924 and to Eltingville in 1985. She had been a resident of the Cloves Lakes Nursing Home, Castleton Corners, since last June.

Mrs. Agaccio worked as a seamstress for the U.S. Army at Governor's Island for 30 years, retiring in 1977.

A parishioner of Holy Child R.C. Church, Eltingville, she enjoyed crocheting, gardening and cooking.

Surviving are her husband, Edmondo; a son, Emiglio; one daughter, Rose Wainwright; seven grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

The funeral will be Wednesday from the John Vincent Scalia Home for Funerals, Eltingville, with a mass at 9:30 a.m. in Holy Child R.C. Church. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery, Brooklyn.

Thomas Stevens, 77, retired copy editor

Thomas W. Stevens of Richmond, a retired copy editor for the Advance, died last midnight in St. Vincent's Medical Center. He would have been 78 years old on April 22. He fell in the driveway of his home a week ago and fractured his hip.

Except for a four-year stint in the U.S. Army infantry during World War II his entire working career had been with the Advance. In February, 1931, he became a correspondent while still a student at Tottenville High School. On graduation in June he became a fulltime social news reporter. Three years later he began covering South Shore sports.

After gaining additional experience doing double-duty in the sports section of the Long Island Press, he returned solely to the Advance and worked on the night sports staff then in the newspaper's old building in West Brighton.

Shortly before joining the Army in October, 1942, he was assigned to the local news staff. He became a master sergeant and earned a bronze star while serving in Leyte and Luzon in the Philippines.

After the war, the Annadale native was named editor of wire service news. Subsequent duties included city editor and news editor for the Sunday Advance. He retired April 6, 1979. He was a member of the Advance's 25-Year Club.

"He was an important part of our staff," Advance editor Les Trautmann said this morning. "He knew Staten Island and its people. That's critical to a local newspaper. Moreover, he was a professional newsman."

Surviving are his wife, the former Agnes Keeney; a brother, Ralph; two sons, Thomas and Douglas; a daughter, Susan, and three grandchildren.

A funeral service will be held Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. in the Casey Funeral Home, Casleton Corners. Burial will be in St. Peter's Cemetery.

George Mickel, 87, was chauffeur

George (Speed) Mickel Sr., 87, of Concord, a native Staten Islander and former chauffeur, died yesterday in Doctors' Hospital after a brief illness.

Born in Stapleton, Mr. Mickel lived in Concord and Stapleton at various times.

Mr. Mickel was a chauffeur for the now-defunct Richmond Burner Heating Company, West Brighton, for 45 years, retiring in 1975.

A parishioner of Immaculate Conception R.C. Church, Stapleton, he attended Curtis High School.

A member of the Staten Island Baseball Oldtimers, Mr. Mickel started playing organized baseball in 1919. Mr. Mickel was also a member of the Ocean Yacht Club and the 21 Club, a Brooklyn boxing organization.

His wife, the former Emma Kerls, died in 1974.

Surviving are two sons, George Jr. and Thomas; two daughters, Dolores and Kathleen Von Schondorf; a brother, August; 12 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The funeral will be Wednesday from the Virginia Funeral Home, Stapleton, with a mass at 10 a.m. in the Immaculate Conception Church. Burial will be in St. Peter's Cemetery, West Brighton.

Julia Provenzano, 82, native of Manhattan

Julia Provenzano, 82, a Manhattan native and homemaker, died Saturday in Clove Lakes Nursing Home, Castleton Corners, where she had been a resident since 1986.

Born Julia D'Amato in Manhattan, she later moved to Brooklyn.

She was a parishioner of St. Rita's R.C. Church, Meiers Corners.

Her husband, Jerome, died in 1985. Surviving are a son, Anthony, and four grandchildren.

The funeral will be tomorrow from the Matthew Funeral Home, Willowbrook, followed by a mass at 9:30 a.m. in St. Rita's Church. Burial will be in Moravian Cemetery, New Dorp.

Peter Mattina, 63, worked as chemist

Peter L. Mattina, 63, of Eltingville, a chemist and medical technologist, died Saturday in Staten Island University Hospital, Princes Bay.

Born in Manhattan, he moved from Brooklyn to New Dorp in 1957 and 10 years later to Eltingville.

Mr. Mattina worked as a special chemist at Bayley Seton Hospital and as a medical technologist at Doctors' Hospital.

He received his bachelor of science degree from Long Island University, Brooklyn. He attended the University of Louvain Medical School in Louvain, Belgium.

Mr. Mattina served in the United States Army for two years during the Korean War.

He was a parishioner of St. Clare's R.C. Church, Great Kills.

Surviving are his wife, the former Eleanor Pezzanite; three sons, Philip, Frank and Peter D.; his daughter, Francine Botti; his mother, Frances Mattina; two sisters, Rose Louise DeCross and Sally Bernardini, and four grandchildren.

The funeral will be Wednesday from the Harmon Home for Funerals, West Brighton, with a mass at 10 a.m. in St. Clare's Church. Burial will follow in St. Peter's Cemetery, West Brighton.

Katherine Scullin, 79, worked as deli owner

Katherine Scullin, 79, of New Brighton, a delicatessen owner, died yesterday of a heart attack in Clove Lakes Nursing Home, Castleton Corners, where she had been a resident since 1988.

Born Katherine McQuarrie in Perth Amboy, she moved to New Brighton in 1946 from Fords, N.J..

Mrs. Scullin and her late husband, John, were the co-owners of Scullin's Delicatessen, New Brighton, for 30 years. Mrs. Scullin also managed the delicatessen, which the couple closed in 1976 upon their retirement.

A homemaker, Mrs. Scullin was a factory worker during World War II.

She attended a business college in Newark during the 1930s.

Mrs. Scullin enjoyed reading.

A parishioner of St. Peter's R.C. Church, New Brighton, she was a member of the parish's mother's club and bowling league.

Her husband died in 1982.

Surviving are four sons, John Jr., James, Daniel and Hugh; 14 grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

The funeral will be Wednesday from the Harmon Home for Funerals, West Brighton, with a mass at 10:30 a.m. in St. Peter's Church. Burial will follow in St. Peter's Cemetery, West Brighton.

Correction/ clarification

Community Board 2 will host a tri-board meeting on the homeless in its board room at Sea View Hospital and Home tonight at 7:30 p.m. It was incorrectly reported in the Sunday Advance that Community Board 2 will hold no meeting this week.

* * *

A headline in the Sunday Advance incorrectly said Navy volunteers were painting school rooms at Bayley Seton Hospital. The story correctly reported the work was being done at the Seton Foundation School located on the third floor of Immaculate Conception School in Stapleton.

Jose Ferrer

MIAMI — Jose Ferrer, the renowned stage and screen actor who won an Academy Award in 1950 for his role as Cyrano de Bergerac, died yesterday after a short illness. He was 80.

Ferrer, who made his reputation as a classical actor with his 1946 Broadway triumph in the title role of Cyrano, died at Doctors' Hospital in suburban Coral Gables, said his fourth wife, Stella.

The cause of death was not disclosed.

During a theater career that spanned more than 50 years, Ferrer won two Tony Awards for acting — in "Cyrano de Bergerac" in 1947, and "The Shrike" in 1952 — and a Tony Award for his direction of "The Fourposter," "Stalag 17" and "The Shrike," all done in the 1951-52 Broadway season.

James Davis

ST. PAUL, Minn. — Bluesman James "Thunderbird" Davis collapsed on stage and died of a heart attack Friday at a nightclub. He was 53.
