Trout Fishing May Soon End

ITHACA, N. Y.—Unsportsmanlike sportsmen may bring an end to trout fishing in New York streams.

Prof. Harlan Brunsted, of the New York State College of Agriculture at Cornell University, predicts few landowners will agree to let fishermen on their property if the sportsmen break fences, block roadways, neglect to close gates, and scatter trash over the land.

The Cornell man says the available water for fishing is being decreased by the state's growing population and by demands for water for other purposes. To combat this, district fish and wildlife boards are studying proposals which would open up more private land to fishermen with the landowner's consent.

* * *

Brunsted says fishermen themselves hold the key to opening more land. "The number of landowners who open their gates to sportsmen will depend on the amount of unselfish consideration the sportsmen show," he declares. "In many cases fishermen are a bigger nuisance on private land than hunters. Stream fishing concentrates sportsmen in relatively small areas, often resulting in property damage and litterbugging."

* * *

Brunsted says record numbers of trout fishermen are expected to dip their lines in the state's waterways this year. To this, streams have been too swollen from melted snow to encourage fishing. With subsiding streams, however, growing numbers of anglers are expected to appear.

New York has acquired public fishing rights on more than 800 miles of streams in 38 counties. Recent state estimates indicate that, if popular demands are to be met, an additional 1200 miles will be needed in the next 15 years.

* * *

Highlight of the meeting, Bensinger revealed, will be a demonstration of golf by a group of the world's top professionals—"all of whom are Brunswick golf endorsers."

* * *

The golfers will hold a special clinic for stockholders as well as competing in a match with Brunswick directors, the latter group being clad in MacGregor jackets for the event.

Harry A. Grove has been appointed Brunswick's television public relations manager. He joined the Chicago-based firm's public relations department in 1958.

EAGLE ADMIRAL THREAT

Another California-bred colt with Derby ambitions is Eagle Admiral from the Llangollen Farm of Mrs. M. E. Lunn. Charles Whittingham, who trains for the former Liz Whitney, has Eagle Admiral and Command Pilot, another Llangollen Derby candidate, at Keeneland.

Eagle Admiral won the Golden Gate Futurity last fall, and ran third in the Santa Anita Derby. Sent to Gulfstream Park, Eagle Admiral scored a major upset in betting Bally Ache in the Fountain of Youth Stakes.

But the son of Khaled, daddy of Sunrise Flag, was better than fourth back of Bally Ache in the $120,600 Florida Derby April 2.

Whitney Seeks First in Derby

C.V. 'Sonny' Whitney, who has sent 13 horses into 13 Kentucky Derbies without winning, may change all that this year.

A top favorite for the May 7 running of the $125,000 classic over 1½ miles at Churchill Downs is Tompion, who carried Whitney's light blue silks to an easy victory in the $130,400 Santa Anita Derby March 5.

Last year Whitney's fine filly, Silver Spoon, beat the colts in the Santa Anita Derby. But she finished fifth in Kentucky when Tomy Lee nosed out Sword Dancer. The best Derby showing by Whitney horses were ip 1947, when Phalanx lost by a head to Jet Pilot, and in 1950, when Mr. Trouble ran third back of Middleground and Hill Prince.

DAD'S LUCK BETTER

Whitney's father, the late Harry Payne Whitney, had much better luck in the glamor race for 3-year-olds. He won in 1915 with Regret, only filly ever to capture the event, and in 1927 with Whisk-ery.

Tompion's breeding speaks well for Whitney's chances this year.

He is a brown son of Tom Fool, 1953 Horse of the Year when he was unbeaten in 10 starts. Tom Fool is the sire of Tim Tam, Calumet's 1958 Kentucky Derby winner. Tompion's dam is Sunlight, daughter of Count Fleet, the 1943 Derby winner. Count Fleet is a son of Reigh Count, 1938 Derby winner.

As a 2-year-old, Tompion gained attention when he made up 15 lengths on the Hollywood Juvenile Championship and finished second behind Noble Noor. Tompion's other victories were the $114,475 Hopeful Stakes at Saratoga and ran second to Warren in the $233,300 Champagne Stakes at Aqueduct.

Trainer Bob Wheeler has entrusted the Hopeful to rider Tompion. Willie won the 1955 Derby with Swaps, and piloted Tomy Lee a year ago. Shoemaker rode the colt in several races, including the Hopeful and Santa Anita Derby.

Tompion is at Keeneland, Lexington, Ky., and is expected to make his final pre-Derby appearance in the $25,000 Blue Grass Stakes April 23.

Whereas Tompion was bred in Kentucky, Noble Noor is a Californian, owned and bred by Dr. and Mrs. John R. Smith at their farm near Mission San Luis Rey.

Noble Noor is a son of Noor, who beat Citation four times in some memorable races 10 years ago. A slight injury suffered in the San Felipe Stakes in mid-February forced Noble Noor to skip the Santa Anita Derby.

Trainer Benny Slasky plans to start Noble Noor in the $40,000 California Derby at Bay Meadows April 23. Slasky says Noble Noor's showing will determine whether he takes a crack at Louisville.

College Bowlers Enjoy Finals

TOLEDO, O.—Three Midwestern collegiate bowlers monopolized the first place positions at the sixth annual National Intercollegiate Bowling Championship at the Toledo Sports Arena, site of the 1960 American Bowling Congress Tournament.

In the competition among 20 of the nation's best undergraduate bowlers, Jerry Constantino, 20-year-old junior from Bradley University (Peoria, Ill.), captured the all-events title with an 1180 total for six games and shared the doubles lead with Eugene Sowa, 22, a senior student at the University of Illinois. Constantino had 655, Wodka 594 for a combined score of 1249.

Jim Nixon, 19-year-old sophomore from the University of Minnesota, took top honors in the singles division with a three-game series of 664.

The 20 bowlers who competed were the survivors of local and regional eliminations in which more than 6,000 students from 80 colleges in 38 states participated.

This was the second year that the national collegiate test was held on the ABC Tournament lanes. From 1955 through 1958, championships were determined on the basis of a comparison by mail of scores rolled in the regional tourneys. St. Louis was the first site for national head-to-head competition last year.

The tournament is conducted under the supervision of the Association of College Unions, in cooperation with American Machine & Foundry Company and the American Bowling Congress. AMF provided for the all-expense-paid trip to Toledo for the bowlers. The ABC made available their tournament lanes and facilities.

At noon of the day following the actual tournament, the 20 college men were guests at an AMF luncheon. The first three place finishers in the singles, doubles and all-events categories received trophies from Frank K. Baker, executive secretary of the ABC and Carl A. Copp, ABC president.

Also on hand for the ceremonies were James J. Overholt, tournament director and George Stevens, games committee chairman, both representing the College Union; Mutual Network sportscaster Bill Stern, who acted as Master of Ceremonies at the proceeding; bowling star Dick Weber from St. Louis; Russell Rink, City Manager of Toledo; Arthur C. Kockendorfer, executive manager of the Toledo Chamber of Commerce, as well as AMF representatives from New York and Chicago.

An AMF Antille bowling ball and bowling bag were also given to each of the 20 bowlers.
